

About Dr Shirley Bang Shieh Ling

Qualifications: MB ChB (New Zealand) • MRCS (Edinburgh) • M Med (Surgery) • FAMS (Urology)

Languages Spoken: English • Mandarin • Teochew • Hokkien

Dr Shirley also performs general and oncological urological procedures. These include endoscopic surgery for stone diseases, minimally invasive surgery for urological cancers and treatment of benign prostatic conditions.

Dr Shirley obtained her medical degree (MBChB) from the University of Auckland in 2004. She subsequently obtained her Membership to the Royal College of Surgeons of Edinburgh (MRCS) in 2009 and her Master of Medicine in Surgery (M.Med) in 2010. She obtained her specialist accreditation as the Fellow of the Academy of Medicine Singapore (FAMS-Urology) in 2014.

Dr Shirley did her subspecialty fellowship in three hospitals, namely the Queen Elizabeth Hospital Birmingham, Birmingham Women's Hospital and Russells Hall Hospital in the United Kingdom. During her fellowship year, she performed complex incontinence and reconstructive surgeries for both male and female patients under the guidance of Dr Mohammed Belal, Dr Almallah Zaki, Dr Pallavi Latthe and Dr Paul Anderson. She also ran a twice weekly Urodynamics and Video Urodynamics clinic during her fellowship.

During her time in Tan Tock Seng Hospital, she runs a busy tertiary practice and manages both simple and complex urological cases on a daily basis. She is one of only two urologists who runs a weekly Urodynamics and Video Urodynamics session in the hospital. She was instrumental in introducing Percutaneous Tibial Nerve Stimulation (PTNS) to the hospital in 2018. PTNS is an effective treatment for overactive bladder (OAB), particularly in patients who do not respond well to medical therapy. In addition to her hospital duties, she runs a twice monthly combined Urology-Rehab clinic at Ang Mo Kio Thye Hua Kwan Hospital for patients with neurogenic bladder after a stroke or major trauma. In addition to her daily clinical duties, she also mentors the Prostate Cancer Survival Support Group in Tan Tock Seng Hospital.

Dr Shirley sits on the Executive Committee of the Singapore Society for Continence. She has also authored research papers published in respected urological journals.
